[ACS upgrades one gallon containers for Lattice Etch]

ACS announces a change in the one gallon containers used for Lattice Etch. The new containers are made from significantly thicker walled HDPE and are equipped with a large PP handle making them much easier to manipulate in a chemical hood during chemical transfer operations. The new bottles also have a cap that is better suited for the chemistry of Lattice Etch.

Lattice Etch will be shipped in the new bottles beginning in December of 2011.
